Massachusetts and Alexandria Masons.

Some time since Mr. Charles Woodberry, of Liberty Lodge of Masons, of Beverly, Mass., wrote to Mr. K. Kemper, Master of Washington Lodge, of this city, asking if the latter could procure for Liberty Lodge a piece of wood from the Mt. Verson mansion with which to make a gavel. Mr. Kemper was unable to get a piece of the wood from the house but through the courtesy of Superintendent Dodge, of Mt. Vernon, he procured a piece of the Magnolia tree which stands near the mansion and which was the last tree Washington planted. This was made into a gavel and a handle for it was made from a piece of wood taken from old Christ Church in this city. These were sent on to Beverly and at the celebra tion of Liberty Lodge on the night of the 221 of February were formally presented to Steam Flooring & Planing Mill in Lodge. Of the ceremony the Baveriy Citizen says:

"Brother Charles Woodbury, whose cor-respondence with Alexandria-Washington Lodge had brought about this memorable gathering, then in behalf of Worshipful Brother Kemper, W. M., and the brother hood of that lodge, brought its frateroal greeting, and presented to Liberty Lodge an elegant gavel accompanied with the fitting sentiment. "Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 29 acade to Liberty Ludge this gavel. No. 22, sends to Liberty Lodge this gavel, made of the wood from the last tree planted made of the wood from the last tree planted by Washington at Mouat Vernoe, the handle of wood from Christ Church at Alexandria. By this token of ancient patriotic tradition, the sons of the Old Dominion greet their brethren of the Paritan Commonwealth in Masonic amity.

He then told quite an interesting story of the correspondence between the two lodges and the fraternal spirit reciprocated by each and trusted that the old union of patriotic thearts between Virginia and Massachusetts might be thus revived and perpetuated for all time. He closed with this sentiment, might be thus revived and perpetuated for all time. He closed with this sentiment, "To Alexandria Washington Lodge No. 22. Illustrious for the honorable names upon its roll, and not less for its long continued and abundant bounty to the poor and humble; distinguished also among the Masonic brotherhood of America, as the lodge which laid the corner stone of our National Capital and for other public services. Its first and supreme honor is to have in its keeping the traditions of Washington, in whose characand in whose memory it possesses an ever living union. May it long live to produce great cuiz-ns; to bless the unfortunate and to ctizens; to bless the unfortunate and to cherish patriotism! Gratefully acknowledging the memorable gift, ever to be prized which it sends to this lodge, we rejoice in its undiminished prosperity and pledge it with sends to the load of the purchase money to be paid in cash, one third in three months and one third in six months, with interest; deferred payments to be secured by a lien on the property. Conveyancing at the cost of the purchasers. fraternal hearts.'

A communication from Worshipful Broth er Kemper was then read, proposing the fol-lowing sentiment: "Washington-soldier, statesman, patriot, mason. May his name left as it is, a landmark on the cliffs of fame continue, 'Still as the tide of ages roll away,

To charm the world, unconscious of decay." Rev. E. C. Butler elequently responded to this septiment with most hearty fraternal greetings and with a warmly appreciative portrayal of the grandeur of Washington's character in all its great characteristics, placing him in the front rank of all the The new bust of Washington just received was happily referred to in illustrating the great character of its subject, while the fragrance of the magnolia tree and the sacred character of the edifice from which the gavel and the handle were made gave elequent suggestion of the fragrant memories that cluster around the name of Washington, as well as the God fearing qualities of the man.

A fitting benediction for the occasion was the following telegram and the response
